

Summer Green Team Climate Care: 12 weeks Questions to Ponder and Act UponWeek 11 of Summer Creation Care: Climate Justice and Peace

Climate change is often called a “threat multiplier”. While people and countries have always fought over land and water, climate change will make natural resources even scarcer resulting in more conflicts. Through our active, mutual participation in the “ministry of reconciliation,” as apostle Paul describes, we have a rich opportunity to work toward realizing climate justice and peace. In the process of participating in this ministry of reconciliation and peace, we recognize we too are being transformed into the likeness of Christ. We recognize that commitment to climate discipleship in community will involve creativity, talent, and compassionate sacrifice.

Question to ponder and act upon:

- Have you thought of climate change as a peace issue before? Why or why not?
- How can we partner in ways that honor those who are affected?
